THE JEANNETTE'S SURVIVORS.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The Times understands that the British foreign office telegraphed to St. Petersburg for confirmation of the news and further details regarding the Jeannette.

The News, in a leading article, says: If any spur were needed to hasten the expedition to help Leigh Smith it is provided in the news about the Jeannette. That sympathy with such ventures is widespread and deep is proved by the heartfelt relief experienced at the news that a major part of the crew of the Jeannette are alive.

The Post says: In every quarter of the globe the news that the brave sailors have reached a port of refuge will be received with heartfelt satisfaction.

Mrs. DeLong's Faith.

NEW YORK, Dec. 20.—The Tribune says there was a pleased family group at the house of Wm. C. Walton, brother of Mrs. Capt. DeLong, last evening. There were present Capt. Walton and wife, the parents of Mrs. DeLong, and Wm. C. Walton and wife. Mrs. DeLong left the city on Saturday to take up her residence with her sister in Burlington, Iowa. She has passed the time since her husband's departure alternately with this sister and with her brother in this city. Capt. Walton telegraphed to her at once the news of her husband's arrival at the mouth of the Lena river. "Mrs. DeLong as well as myself," said Capt. Walton, "have never had the least apprehension but that her husband would return in safety. He himself felt sure of this. He said he did not expect to come back in the Jeannette however. He thought she would probably have to be abandoned and that they would have to take to sleds and boats, and that has happened. Wm. Walton said he took it for granted that it was in June of this year that the Jeannette had been abandoned. The spot determined upon was some 400 miles northwest of Wrangel land. Mrs. DeLong always thought she would probably have to be abandoned." Mrs. DeLong, it was thought, would return to this city at once, so that she would get tidings from her husband at the earliest possible moment.

Commander Cheyne on the Subject.

I have never had any fear for the safety of the Jeannette, said Commander Cheyne last night to a reporter, and I have not hesitated to say so in public. She was of unusual strength, being much stronger than many vessels used for arctic expeditions; she had on board provisions for three years, and there was no danger from that source. The fact that no dispatches were left by her at Wrangel Land proved nothing, except that she was kept off the coast by ice. Other vessels have been out for years and returned safely. The Victory, for instance, commanded by Sir John Ross, and the Investigator, commanded by Sir Robert McClure. My opinion has been all along that the Jeannette was somewhere north of Grinnell's Land. I thought that after leaving Behring's Straits she had probably been caught in the ice and had been carried east by the circumpolar current, which goes north of Sweden, then north of Asia, then past America and finally down the eastern coast of Greenland. If any expedition was to be sent after her I thought the way for it would be through Smith's sound and through Behring's straits. The fact that two of the ship's boats have both landed near the mouth of the river Lena shows, however, that the Jeannette must have steered more to the west than I thought she would. Probably she found more open channels in that direction and so went west and north instead of directly north. How she was crushed, of course we can only surmise. The men may have gone considerable distance in their boats. I think that the third boat will yet be heard from. You see travelling in the arctic regions is much safer than people suppose it is. Whatever happens you have always ice under you. The open polar sea is a myth. The percentage of lives lost in arctic exploration is only .017 Henry Wilton Grinnell, whose father sent out two expeditions, came to see me this afternoon. He said he thought it was safer to go to the arctic seas than to stay and try to cross New York streets every day. The loss of the Jeannette, however, is argument in favor of my theory as to the best route to the north pole. There are three ways you know, by Smith's sound, Behring's strait, and the Spitzbergen route. North of Behring's strait water is shallow and the deep ice is apt to stick on the bottom making a passage difficult. In the Spitzbergen route the ice was so thick that the Dutch expedition under Barontz was unable to get through it at all, and I think as most Americans do, that the Smith's sound route is the safest and most practicable. By the way, my plan to reach the north pole with Lieut. Schwatka is receiving much support here. A commission will be formed in this city soon to co-operate with a British commission, and among others Grinnell has promised to be a member. He has offered to act as secretary. This afternoon it was decided to name my ship after his father.

Discussing the Jeannette Question.

The secretary of state and secretary of the navy had a conference this afternoon as to the best method to be pursued in reference to the Jeannette and agreed the only thing to be done at present was to telegraph the U. S. minister at St. Petersburg to request the Russian government to furnish all assistance in their power, pecuniarily and otherwise, towards bringing the survivors to a place of communication, so that they might be enabled to reach home. The question of sending the U. S. steamer Rodgers, now in winter quarters at St. Lawrence bay, in search of the missing crew of the steamer Jeannette was discussed at the navy department to-day.

Relief for the Jeannette.

Following was sent this afternoon:

DEPARTMENT OF STATE,
WASHINGTON, Dec. 21, 1881.

To Hoffman, Charge d' Affairs, St. Petersburg:—The president desires you to make provision for immediate relief and return of the officers and men of the Jeannette. Cable promptly the amount of credit you require and it will be provided by the secretary of the navy and myself. Also cable what steps can be taken by this government for the recovery of the crew of the missing boat.

FRELINGHUYSEN, Sec. of State.

WASHINGTON CITY.

Washington Notes and Comments.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—A Washington special says: The new chairmen are upon the whole satisfactory to members, though there is considerable adverse criticism of the appointment of Page as chairman of the committee on commerce. Kasson gets no important chairmanship, being treated as a new member, rather than one who returns to the scenes of former triumph. Pennsylvania has been favored in the ways and means committee, getting the chairman and two other members—Randall and Errett. This is said to be unprecedented and provokes much criticism, especially among western low tariff members.

Members of the senate finance committee are not so favorably disposed toward the Morrill commission bill as the vote by which it was reported to the senate seems to indicate. Only two members of the committee actually advocated it, Morrill and Bayard. Sherman and Allison did not oppose it, but let the bill be reported only on the understanding that they were to antagonize its passage in the senate. Sherman's position was that he was opposed to any kind of tariff commission. Outside of congress it was notorious that the tariff in its present shape was an abomination, Congress was competent to undertake the work of revision, and should begin at once. The Morrill commission were not required to report till 1883, and after that congress would have practically to go over all the ground again, so that the passage of the bill simply postponed any action for three or four years. Allison took the same ground. Both these senators thought they would do better to get the bill out of the committee room, where it could be defeated by the senate.

House Committee Chairmanships.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 20.—Following is said to have been the assignment of chairmanships of the house committees determined upon by the republicans:

Pacheco, of California, private land claims.
Page, of California, commerce.
Hiscock, of New York, appropriations.
Kelly, of Pennsylvania, ways and means.
Young, of Ohio, claims.
Neal, of Ohio, District of Columbia.
Townsend, of Ohio, railroads and canals.
Reed, of Maine, judiciary.

Garfield Memorial Services.

McKinley from the memorial committee reported the following resolution, which was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The melancholy event of the violent and tragic death of James A. Garfield, late president of the United States having occurred during recess of congress, and the two houses of congress sharing in the general grief and desiring to manifest their sensibility on an occasion of public bereavement.

Resolved, That the two houses of congress will assemble in the hall of the house of representatives on the day and hour to be fixed and announced; and in the presence of the two houses there assembled an address on the life and character of James A. Garfield, late president of the United States, be pronounced by Hon. James G. Blaine, and that the president of the senate pro tem and speaker of the house of representatives be requested to invite the president and ex-presidents of the United States, heads of the several departments, judges of the supreme court, representatives of foreign governments, governors of the several states, general of the army, admiral of the navy and such officers as have received the thanks of congress.

Resolved, further, That the president of the United States be requested to transmit a copy of these resolutions to Mrs. Lucretia R. Garfield, and assure her of the profound sympathy of the two houses of congress for her deep personal affliction and their sincere condolence for her late bereavement.

Congress Adjourned.

Both houses of congress have adjourned to January 5th, 1882.

Confirmations.

The senate confirmed the following nominations: Alonzo J. Edgerton, chief justice of Dakota; Jesse Spalding collector of customs at Chicago; Pierre C. Van Wyck, superintendent of the assay office at New York; J. B. Eckfeldt, assayer at Philadelphia mint.

Star Route Evidence.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—U. S. District Attorney Bliss said to-day that he was getting together evidence in about fifty star route cases. The amount of money involved he declined to give, but hinted that it amounted to millions. Prosecutions would soon begin and would be carried on in the usual way; that is, by going first through the hands of the grand jury. The principal part of the cases will be tried in Washington, but there will be some suits instituted in each of the U. S. district courts as may appear to the attorney general to be most convenient. The evidence in many of the cases is reported to be very strong.

A Prompt Confirmation.

The confirmation of Postmaster General Howe followed promptly and unanimously the reception of his nomination by the senate.

Failed to Decide.

A republican senatorial caucus this afternoon met without reaching a decision as to the democratic proposition that Neil Brown, late reading clerk of the house be elected to the same place in the senate.

Blaine Accepts.

Ex-Secretary Blaine accepts the invitation of the house and senate committee to pronounce the eulogy upon President Garfield in the forthcoming memorial services.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

Dr. Hamilton Believes Guiteau to be a Sane Man.

ANOTHER EXPERT COINCIDES WITH HIM IN THAT OPINION.

The Prisoner Somewhat Disconcerted at their Testimony and Gives Scoville a Severe Tongue-lashing a Poor Day for Defense.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Dr. Hamilton of New York took the stand. Scoville desired to have other experts excluded during the testimony, but the court ruled against him. During argument Davidge was interrupted by Guiteau, who said:

"I will cut this short, judge, by saying I am perfectly willing to have them here. I want them to learn all they can. I have so much confidence in their honor and integrity that—

Davidge—That is precisely what I am coming to.

Guiteau—You are on the right track, judge; I'll take you on my side. You are engaged for my side of this case.

Witness was questioned at great length relative to the operations of minds, significance of dreams and unconscious expressions, as indicative of mental process.

Counsel for prosecution protested against the apparently objective direction of the inquiries.

Scoville, smiling—Well, gentlemen, I told you I did not know much about this subject.

Guiteau—Then you had better get off the case if you don't know anything about it. I think Reed and I can do better than you, judging by the way you are laboring over notes (which Scoville held in his hand). He continued: You've got a lot of stuff there. It is not in your handwriting. I guess it must have been contributed by some crank.

"I want to say right here that Col. Corkhill has made a very good outward statement of facts, but he hasn't touched at all upon what was going on in my mind at that time. That's a matter for the jury, the court, the deity and me to decide; we four."

Col. Corkhill then read another hypothetical question, setting forth in its most unenviable light the career of Guiteau. The prisoner winced under the record, but confined himself to a sort of growl: "That's false," or "that's absolutely false."

On concluding the reading, Corkhill again inquired of witness, "Do you consider that the prisoner was sane or insane on the 2d of July?"

Answer—"In my opinion he was sane."

On the whole this witness' testimony bore against the theory of insanity and was fairly well sustained.

Dr. Worcester, of Mass., who refused, when on the stand for defense to answer the hypothetical question proposed by Scoville, testified that in his opinion the prisoner was a sane man.

Guiteau (sharply)—"How much do you expect to get for that opinion, sir. I suppose that will be worth $500 to you. That is the way Corkhill is running, but I don't think it will be worth a snap with the jury; not a snap, sir."

Corkhill then read a hypothetical question which covered the material facts in the prisoner's history from boyhood down to his act on the 2d of July, and inquired, "assuming all these facts to be true, in your opinion was the prisoner sane or insane, when he killed the president?"

Answer—"I believe him to have been sane."

Guiteau, (sneeringly)—"Yes sir, and you expect to get $500 or your opinion."

All through the reading of the hypothetical question, Guiteau continually shouted, "That's false, absolutely false." At one time he said, "That's false. Get the facts right for your hypothesis, or whatever you call it. Judge Porter must have got that stuff up for you, Corkhill. You certainly have not got brains enough."

Davidge asked if people adjudged medically insane were not capable of judging between right and wrong.

Guiteau quickly looking up from his writing—What bearing has that, when a person is controlled by irresistible impulse? That's all there is in this case (striking the table violently), and all this talk don't amount to anything

Witness replied: "There are a great many insane medically, who appreciate the difference between right and wrong. In nearly all asylums systems of rewards and punishments are in vogue in dealing with insane, showing that it is recognized in the treatment of insane that they discriminate and can control their actions."

Guiteau appeared dissatisfied with the examination, and finally said to Scoville, "Oh, tear that stuff up, Scoville; send this man down and call Clark Mills. He's a good deal better man for you than this one. He took a cast of my head the other day, thinking some people would be interested to see it. He took a bust of Andrew Jackson, and he thinks it greater than Jackson's was. He found one side of my head badly deficient though."

The prisoner then branched off to the "inspiration" theory.

After recess Dr. Worcester again took the stand, when Guiteau insisted upon being heard and with some impetuosity, said, "I want it distinctly understood that on the third of July I gave Col. Corkhill and his reporter in a two hours' interview, my views on this whole subject—the inspiration, the political situation and all the causes that impelled me to shoot the president, and this man Corkhill destroyed his notes so I could not use them upon this trial. It's a burning shame for him to come in here now and say I never said anything about inspiration until three weeks after the shooting."

Dr. Worcester then turned to Judge Cox and said, "If the court please I understand I appear here as an expert summoned by the government to testify just as I believe, impartially, in this case."

Col. Corkhill undertook to explain that witness had remained in the city wholly against his will, when he was interrupted by Scoville, who with evident anger protested against this action of counsel for prosecution in attempting to fortify this witness with the jury in advance of his evidence.

A sharp colloquy ensued between counsel, interrupted by Guiteau, who shouted, "Oh, let him alone. He's not worth noticing. He's working for his $500, that's all."

Resuming cross examination Scoville asked, "When and where did you get your title of doctor?"

Answer—I got my title of doctor from Howard University in 1868. I began my course of study in 1863."

Witness was then questioned at great length in regard to his medical practice, books he had read, patients he had treated and opportunities he had enjoyed for investigating the subject of insanity. He was asked how he came to the opinion in Salem that the prisoner was insane, and why he had written to counsel Scoville that such was his opinion, and replied:

From statements I had seen that he was actuated when he shot the president by an insane delusion, and that the uncontrollable impulse under which he acted was an outgrowth of that insane delusion. I wrote thinking I might be of service to the insane man.

Witness had changed his opinion as to the insanity of prisoner, because he no longer believed it to be a true statement upon which he had based his opinion before coming to Washington.

Guiteau (impatiently)—Don't you know, Scoville, that $500 has modified his views. What's the use of wasting time on him. Let him go.

Scoville was about to resume examination, when Guiteau struck the table violently and called out.

"Make the matter short. It is simply a matter of fact for the jury to determine whether my free agency was destroyed or not. I claim it was, and I won't have you compromise my life as you are doing by your stupid blunderous way of examining witnesses."

As examination proceeded, Guiteau frequently interrupted and roundly abused Scoville for his incompetency, and charged him with compromising his case. Turning toward the judge, Guiteau added deprecatingly, "Scoville is a perfect idiot in this matter, and between him and Corkhill I have a pretty hard time. (General laughter.) I am a good natured man (laughter), but I can't stand abuse, and when I'm buzzed I want to talk right back."

Mr. Scoville, who had borne everything heretofore with apparent equanimity, seemed to feel very keenly this last evidence of heartless ingratitude. His voice trembled, and for a minute he was unable to go on. Even the prisoner realized the injustice of his conduct and hastened to apologize, saying, "You are doing very well, Scoville, to the best of your ability."

Several times afterwards during the examination of Dr. Worcester Guiteau denounced Scoville. At one time in evident anger and again with a sarcastic smile. "Why, your honor," he shouted, "If I was indicted for manslaughter I would be hung for murder if Scoville should defend me."

Mrs. Scoville reached over to speak to Guiteau when he snarled at her, "you keep your mouth shut. You're as big a fool as your husband. You're a crank on that business. If you had all stayed in Chicago it would have been far better for my case. These relations are a nuisance. I would have plenty of friends if this pack of relatives were out of the way."

Mrs. Scoville whispered some expostulatory reply, when he turned again angrily and shouted, "You have been an unmitigated nuisance in this case all the way through." Then changing quickly from anger to mirth, he added with a laugh, "You are a queer lot, you Scovilles."

Adjourned.

Funeral of Juror Hobbs' Wife.

All the jurymen in the case of Guiteau accompanied by a deputy marshal and bailiffs, attended the funeral yesterday of the wife of Juror Hobbs.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.

The chair submitted a communication from the secretary of war, transmitting a report of Capt. Handbury of the engineer corps, on Red river, Arkansas, and the proceedings of the board of trade of Chicago, favoring the Hennepin canal project; referred.

Cameron of Wisconsin, from committee on claims, reported favorably without amendment, a bill to ascertain the amounts due citizens of the United States for supplies furnished the Sioux or Dakotah Indians of Minnesota, prior to the massacre of 1862 and for payment thereof.

Beck submitted a resolution directing the secretary of the treasury to furnish the senate, as soon as possible, the present rates of duties imposed by France and Germany on manufactures of the United States when imported into these countries, especially on various manufactures of wool, cotton, iron and leather, and inform the senate at what rates like manufactured articles are allowed to be imported into those countries from Great Britain, if he has such information in his possession. He said that upon making a personal application this morning he had been informed at the treasury department it can only be obtained by senate resolution. This rule, if adhered to generally, would, he thought, subject senators to some inconvenience.

Platt suggested the extension of the inquiry so as to ascertain what articles of American manufacture are prohibited in said countries.

Hawley said that in looking over the discussion that preceded the tariff of 1842 he had noticed a call made upon the then secretary of the treasury for a general statement of the tariffs of all countries with which the United States had any trade. He suggested that a like call at this time would be productive of profitable material for discussion.

Sherman proposed a modification of the resolution so as to secure information in tabulated forms, and thus facilitate its preparation.

Morrill asked to have included in the extension the suggestion by Platt concerning all other products of the United States. He said the duties on our wheat, flour, pork, lard, tobacco and various other articles, were very onerous, and he would like to see the exact facts placed before the senate.

Beck modified his resolution so as to incorporate all these suggestions except that of Hawley, which after a statement that it would probably make necessary the labor of several months, was withdrawn.

Debate ensued upon the amendment proposed by Hoar and objected to by Beck as involving a long delay to include in the desired information rates of wages paid in the countries named to operatives engaged in the same or similar manufactures, and said the whole question at issue in regard to the tariff, was whether the American rate of wages could be maintained. In the state which he happened to represent, operatives in mills are ruled by the matter of governmental policy, and for one he intended that whatever else might happen, that there shall be awarded those operatives such share of compensation for the product of their labor as will give them an opportunity to put their children in schools, to have their wives decently clad and have their minds free to enjoy the luxuries of social life. To do that the American rate must be maintained. This could not be done in France, Germany or Great Britain. No discussion of the question can be intelligent unless it is directed to this point. Can the American laboring man maintain as he has for the last 20 years under the protective policies which have prevailed, this standard of compensation? Hoar had read with pleasure the Atlanta speech of the senator from Indiana, Mr. Voorhees commending the policy of building up manufactures and developing the industries of the west and south. Let these manufactures come in the northwest, in the southwest and the southeast. Let them compete with and in many instances drive out industries from east been celebrated and of which in this country it has had almost a monopoly. The east was willing upon this one condition that the southern and western laborer who accomplishes the work shall be a man whose day's wages are sufficient to enable him to enjoy the priceless luxuries of education and of content next to his old age, which should be enjoyed by every American citizen.

Beck replied that as his resolution was merely one of inquiry he thought a tariff speech would not be pertinent at this time and therefore he would refrain from any other reply to Senator Hoar except to say that the senator would find if he would carry comparison far enough that under our protective policy five hundred dollars of wages does not procure for an American operative as much of the necessaries of life as can be procured by an English laborer for three hundred dollars.

Dawes—Why does he not stay at home?

Beck—Because the institutions of this country are more favorable to him and his children than his own, and because we give him for nothing 160 acres of land, while England has not a foot to give. As to the question of wages as between New England and the south its answer was that wages paid by the south was no part of the business of the people of Massachusetts, but that with their disadvantages of inferior machinery and labor and with absolute free trade between them, the industries of Georgia will continue to compare as successfully as they are now doing with those of Massachusetts.

Maxey asked Beck to broaden the resolution so as to cover the duties imposed upon our trade by Mexico. He said they were in many instances exorbitant and as to some articles, almost prohibitory. We were now building railroads into that country and if we would pursue a proper course and take such steps as would ultimately bring about a reciprocity treaty upon fair and equitable terms to both countries we will capture the English trade and make the Mexican country one grand theater of American prosperity. He moved an amendment in accordance with his request. This amendment was accepted by Beck, and Hoar having agreed to withdraw his proposition temporarily the resolution as modified was adopted without a vote.

Morgan offered a resolution requesting the president, if in his opinion not incompatible with public interest, to communicate to the senate any correspondence with the Mexican government, relative to claims specified in the 5th section of the act of congress of June, 1878, and whether payment has been made on said claims; adopted.

IMPOSITIONS UPON COMMERCE.

Complaints Heretofore Made Repeated with Comments by a New York Shipping Journal.

The New York Maritime Register of Dec. 7 prints the following article. Some of the statements on which the article is based are utterly without foundation, and others are grossly and absurdly exaggerated. But there is foundation enough for the complaints presented to move our people to every possible effort to correct the evils and disadvantages which undoubtedly do exist. We give the article entire, in order that those who are interested more than all others may see just what is being said. It will be seen that the chief complaint is made against port abuses. These, though exaggerated, must be corrected. It is within the power of ourselves to correct them, and it is a just cause of reproach that it was not been done sooner. If it is to be done, Portland must lead in it. Here is the article:

Complaints are made of extortion upon shipping at Portland, Oregon. Complaints are also made of the badness of the pilot and towage services at Columbia river bar. We have on previous occasions called attention to this matter. It was supposed that the injury which a continuance of excessive charges would be to the trade of the Columbia river was so obvious, that the good sense of the commercial community in that quarter would hasten to remove the cause. But complaints are increasing, and so many of them ship-owners are warned not to send their vessels to Portland. If this continues unchecked much longer, the evils will become of such size as seriously to compromise the reputation of the port, and thereby retard its commercial growth. Several British ship-masters recently complained through the columns of a Liverpool journal that they were subjected to heavy extortions and much detention at Columbia river, and they declare Portland to be one of the worst ports for shipping in the world. Such complaints, being records of actual cases, are the evidences given by those who condemn a port and must work injury to the trade of Portland. They are accusations which cannot be answered, because they are based upon facts. They should not go unheeded, and the lessons they point out should be learned if further accusations are to be prevented. These complaints serve to exaggerate every disadvantage in the Columbia river trade. Objections are made on account of the dangerous character of the bar at the mouth of the river and, the detention caused thereby to vessels. These natural disadvantages, however, would not be an insuperable objection to Portland, were they all the drawbacks that are to be encountered. The trade that is offered would be a sufficient inducement to brave these and even greater obstacles. But bitter complaint is also made against the excessive charges and serious detentions which are imposed by pilots, tow-boats, stevedores and other local agencies. These together make a large bill of expenses. The list of them is formidable, and all the conditions surrounding them reflect but illy upon the sagacity of those who are supposed to protect the interests of the port. Wharfage charges, it is alleged, are high, and unnecessary delays are imposed both at Portland and Astoria in order to increase the amount of wharfage. Complaints are also made that pilots cannot always be obtained off the Columbia river bar, and that accidents are caused thereby. Ugly stories are also told of collusions between pilots and tow-boat owners

These are very serious charges, which, if untrue, should be widely and thoroughly refuted. If they are disseminated and take root they will injure the Columbia river trade for years. They must not only make ship owners suspicious and anxious to avoid Portland charters, except under most favorable circumstances, but they must lead underwriters also to discriminate against the port. The rate of freight needed to cover all such disadvantages will hardly permit of extensive exports from Columbia river. Further complaints are made that while there is a seeming rivalry in river towage, a satisfactory understanding really exists which is arranged by the towage people to the detriment of ships. Towage charges are also stated to be extortionate, and advantage is taken through the many delays forced upon the ship, to increase the size of the towage bill. Other charges incurred by vessels in port are also excessive, and an instance is related of one vessel which, owing to detention, had to pay for lighterage, towage and similar bills $1740. Allowing for the exaggeration which generally accompanies such complaints, it is evident that the charges are excessive, the impositions great and that the advantages of good freights scarcely compensate for the delays and expenses incurred at Portland by shipping. It is not probable that Portland and Astoria want to imitate the worthy couple who owned the goose that laid the golden eggs. From all accounts, however, they are in a fair way of doing so. Ingenuity should not be spurred to devise new means of extorting money from shipping. It is better to remain satisfied with much smaller amounts from a larger number of vessels.

There are few ports so peculiarly situated in a commercial point of view as Portland. It rests entirely with its citizens, whether its future shall be good or bad. It has just enough natural advantages to render possible, through the energy and wisdom of its commercial men to make here a large port and a great commercial center. And it has not enough natural advantages to warrant entire dependence upon them alone to insure a great future. The development of its back country and the extension of railway facilities will increase its importance, but its distance from the sea and the dangers of the Columbia river bar are great drawbacks. The only way to overcome all these is by securing such improvements of the bar as are possible and offering every facility and advantage to shipping. Other ports at a distance from the sea have accomplished as much, and the same can be done at Portland. But from the many serious complaints, we should judge that the people of Portland fail to understand their position in this particular. Instead of making advantages for shipping, high charges and impositions prevail. Some attempts are made to be sure, to induce the general government to improve the Columbia river bar. But what will this avail if local agencies are permitted to work disadvantageously to the interests of the port? Portland has a good trade and brilliant prospects. Great things are predicted for the Columbia river trade, and we hear promises concerning a line of steamers to take grain thence to Europe. All these are endangered by the drawbacks which come of outrageous port charges. The Columbia river is not increasing in favor in shipping circles, and the great future expected for Portland will not be realized unless some heed is given to the many complaints and a radical change is made in the customs and charges of that port.

San Francisco Notes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—A meeting of the grand council of the order of Chosen Friends was held to-day. During the afternoon session one of the delegates stated that under authority vested in him by virtue of his office he had the right to enjoining the seceding council from collecting dues; also to compel them to pay dues to the grand council of the old order. The matter was referred to a committee.

The members of the grand jury have officially visited the Metropolitan Temple and some of the theaters of the city for the purpose of determining whether the means of exit are adequate in case of fire.

The State Teachers' Association of California will hold its fifteenth annual meeting in this city commencing December 27th.

The Row between Chosen Friends.

The grand council of the order of Chosen Friends, representing about 30 lodges, that held aloof from the recent independent movement, to-day adopted a report petitioning the supreme council to be set apart as a separate jurisdiction, whenever the membership shall reach 3000.

Concerning Chinatown.

About a year ago the board of health adopted a resolution condemning Chinatown and calling on the board of supervisors to increase the prison accommodations so that the provisions of the cubic air ordinance could be enforced. The board of supervisors, for some reasons, failed to give the matter attention. To-night the board of health met and again adopted the resolution, and called attention of the new board to the necessity of increasing at once prison accommodations. The board also called the consideration of the supervisors to the fact that during the present year not less than 5000 Chinamen have arrived in the city, and that they were all quartered in Chinatown, and that its limits had not been enlarged. A quarantine officer stated that the great number of Chinese who arrived on the last steamers were reported as having been vaccinated prior to leaving China; but that it had since been ascertained by investigation that there was no virus at Yokohama or Hongkong, and that the celestials had been inoculated with mucilage instead of with vaccine matter. The board of health authorized the quarantine office to rigidly enforce the ordinance requiring vaccination.

Robert McWade's Troubles.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 20.—Robert McWade, the actor, whose mysterious disappearance was noted in to-day's Philadelphia dispatches, is in this city, after a protracted tour through the Pacific states and territories. He is unable to understand why he should be considered to have disappeared, as the local press has from time to time chronicled his appearance at interior towns, and for the past three weeks he has been in San Francisco negotiating for the production of a new play and played at the recent benefit of W. E. Sheridan at Baldwin's. Mr. McWade has lost heavily on his recent tour which has cramped him financially.

A General Row.

NEVADA CITY Cal., Dec. 20.—A shooting scrape occurred at an Indian camp about a mile from this city this morning, between two drunken Indians. One Indian drew a revolver and fired a shot at the other. The wounded man fired two shots at his assailant, both of which took effect. During the fracas a man named Williams, who furnished the Indians with whisky, shot one of the Diggers three times, after which he made his escape. He is still at large. Both Indians will die.

Indian Suicide.

NEVADA, Dec. 21.—One of the Indians wounded during the shooting scrape at a camp yesterday morning, to-day put an end to his life by cutting his throat with a piece of glass. The other wounded Indian is still alive. The white man who shot one of the Indians has not yet been captured. It is said he is being pursued by some of the Diggers and that if caught they will make short work of him.

Stabbed for a Woman.

SAN JOSE, Dec. 21.—Last evening at 11 o'clock Jos. E. Bes was fatally stabbed at the corner of Eldorado and San Pedro streets, by a party unknown. The two had been in attendance at a fandango and had a quarrel about one of the women present.

Killed by an Explosion.

NAPA, Dec. 21.—Philip McMahon was yesterday killed at the Redington mine, at Knoxville, by an explosion of a blast.

EQUITABLE
LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY,
120 Broadway, New York.
LIFE INSURANCE PROFITS DEMONSTRATED BY ACTUAL SETTLEMENTS MADE IN 1880.
The Society is now paying maturing Tontine Policies with the following remarkable results:
POLICIES CARRIED TEN YEARS WITH THE RETURN OF ALL PREMIUMS PAID AND INTEREST THEREON.
1st Example: Policy No. 43,563, issued May 25, 1869. Amount $10,000 00
Total premiums paid (11 years) 5,594 60
The assured is now entitled to draw, in cash, $6,456.60, having paid besides $10,000 of assurance for eleven years. 115 per cent. of premiums paid, returnable in cash.
This example and those which follow show that
LARGER PROFITS ARE PAID POLICY-HOLDERS THAN ARE NOW DECLARED BY ANY OTHER COMPANY.
2d Example: Policy No. 50,561, issued Dec. 20, 1870. Endowment 20 years. Tontine Period ten years.
Amount $15,000 00
Total premiums paid (10 years) 7,530 00
The assured on Dec. 20, 1880, will be entitled to draw in cash, $9,053 90, 120 per cent of the premiums paid.
These results, although predicted by carefully made estimates, are
NOT ESTIMATES, BUT ACTUAL CASH RETURNS.
3d Example: Policy No. 41,821, issued March 27, 1869. Amount $5,000 00
Total premiums paid .... [illegible]
In this case the assured withdrew, March 27, 1880, in cash, $3,612 45, being 114 per cent. of premiums paid.
Many policies will be thus paid in 1881, showing
CASH RETURNS OF FROM 100 TO 120 PER CENT. OF THE PREMIUMS PAID.
Assets securely invested of $43,000,000. Surplus, nearly $10,000,000. The Society's popularity is shown by the fact that for the past eleven years the total amount of new policies issued has been greater than that of any other company in existence, thus making its average
ANNUAL NEW BUSINESS LARGER THAN THAT OF ANY OTHER COMPANY.
The Society pays death claims promptly and in full. Its policies are clear and concise, and with no unreasonable conditions.
EVERY POLICY BECOMES INCONTESTABLE AFTER THREE YEARS.

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 22, 1881.

LET THEM BORE.

The news is that President Arthur is pestered excessively by office-seekers. His associations heretofore have been with "practical politicians"—that is, with the class who have devoted themselves in a professional way to the distribution of the offices, and who have regarded the presidency as a thing of value chiefly because it could be used to promote and support the industry of office-seeking. So now he is surrounded by those who deem this the chief function of the presidential office;—yet when it is brought home to him so demonstratively he is annoyed, perplexed, bored and tired out. Already he has adopted the expedient of shutting himself up to escape his tireless persecutors; but the office-seeker is not so to be foiled. He finds means of breaking over all the barriers which the president can erect against him. Unattended he cannot get in but he bores his senator or representative, or both, till they, to get rid of this torture of ceaseless importunity, conduct him to the presidential presence. To this mode of attack the president must succumb, because he is afraid of the consequences of snubbing so many members of congress. And so the office-seeker bores and bores, and the president is bored and bored. This is indeed encouraging. We hope the president will be pestered still more. We would like to hear that the swarm of troublesome creatures was multiplying daily, till the insects of a Texas summer would be no match for them. Instead of getting an audience on three days of the week and thus taking half his time, we sincerely hope they may persist and persist, till they monopolize all his time. They ought not to stop when office hours are over. They should lay hold of the president's Prince Albert skirts when he descends the white house steps. They should waylay his carriage when he sets forth for a ride, and follow him down the avenue when he walks, as a crowd of Arabs follow a traveller for backsheesh. When he sits down to eat would that the boldest of the gang were always there to descend with a swoop on the viands, like the harpies of old, and snatch them away till he had granted their prayer. We would have his guards bribed and his bedroom invaded, so that he should suffer the torture of having to be awakened every half hour in the night to read petitions for place and to listen to the harangues of rival delegations. Down the chimney like so many Santa Clauses should they descend, not to bring but to seek gifts and favors from the president. It would delight us to hear that a hole had been cut in the roof and a man let down on a stretcher, like the sick man at Capernaum, so that his itch for office might be cured by the president's magic touch. In short we would have Mr. Arthur pestered and worried within an inch of his life by this great American plague of office-seekers; a plague that Pharoah was mercifully spared, but which if he had suffered he would not only have let the people go, but set the dogs on them to make them go, and provided boats for them to cross the Red sea in, if, indeed, he should not have pressed them so closely that they wouldn't have had time to take that strange roundabout way to Palestine.

And why should the president be wished in such evil case? Simply because it is the way—the way of all others—to convert him thoroughly to the doctrine of civil service reform. His message shows that he has not yet sufficiently pronounced views on the subject, and we wish his hesitation to disappear. Poor Garfield was coming to see that unless there was some way of regulating office-seeking by law, it would soon take all the president's time to attend to the claims and counter claims of applicants, and leave him no time for the duties of the office to which the people had elected him. He was being rapidly converted to the reform when he was killed. We want Arthur to be converted in the same way. If sufficiently pestered and bored he will be. He is ambitious to make a good president. He is interested in statesmanship, in the legitimate duties of his high office. We want him to see that he cannot attend to them if he is to devote his time to deciding the rival claims of all the petty politicians in the United States, harmonizing differences and placating disappointed men of "influence." We desire to have him taught by actual experience that he has got to choose once for all between being president of the people of the United States and being merely the head boss of the politicians of the United States—to become convinced by trial that whatever the theoretical difficulties in the way of establishing civil service reform they are less than the practical difficulties involved in not establishing it, and in letting things go on as they are doing now. Pestering will, we think, do this. So let the pesterers have free play. Let them ply their vocation in season and out of season with the president. They are doing a noble work, likely to bear rich fruit. They are building much better than they know.

The United States circuit court at Chicago has rendered a decision against one of the abuses of the patent laws. It is a decision which will be regarded as an important one in nearly all parts of the country. The suit was brought to test the validity of two patents, one upon a process of canning meat, and the other upon a conical shaped can for holding meat. The court held that as meats had been canned for years before the issuance of the patents, and as the process of packing meats in cans in a warm state was no original invention, it was not a matter upon which a patent could lawfully be issued. The patent on the conical shaped can was declared invalid for a similar reason. The court held that the shape of a can was a matter in which the liberty of choice could not be taken from the makers and users of cans, and an exclusive monopoly granted to some one claiming to have invented or first used it. The case as to barbed wire, used for fences, is entirely similar to this. The barb had been used upon fences in one form or another as a guard against animals for years, and indeed for centuries; and as it was no original invention a patent never ought to have been granted upon it. The abuse of the patent business has become so great that it is high time the courts had begun to abate it.

San Francisco papers say that Leland Stanford, president of the Central Pacific railroad, who went to New York a few days ago, has again gone to England, for the purpose of completing arrangements for the establishment of a line of steamers between Liverpool and the Gulf of Mexico, to run in connection with the Southern Pacific railroad. It is also stated that the Southern Pacific company have ordered 700 combination emigrant wheat cars, which will carry wheat to the gulf and bring back emigrants the wheat cars being cushioned in such a way as to be convertible into passenger sleeping cars. The original model of the combination car was made at the Central Pacific company's works at Sacramento. It is further stated that the Southern Pacific railroad company will, when the road is completed and the Liverpool and Gulf of Mexico steamship line shall have been established, carry emigrants through from Liverpool to any part of California for $35, only $5 more than it now costs them from Liverpool to New York.

Some agitation has been created in diplomatic circles at Washington by reason of Secretary Blaine's request for the recall of the Russian minister to the United States, Mr. Bartholomei. He is accused of gross misconduct and immorality in attempting to introduce customs which, while they may be permitted in Russia, are an insult to the American people. The ambassador leaves for St. Petersburg next month to account for his actions.

In San Francisco an onslaught is being made on the "twin evils," rum and tobacco, in an effective way. A few evenings ago the sum of $1000, which had been subscribed for the purpose, was distributed for two hundred essays against these two forms of intemperance by public school children. If it is impossible to cure old smokers and topers there is certainly good reason to hope that proper effort will make an impression on the young. The public schools ought to be made a very effective agency in committing the young against liquors and tobacco.

Scoville who is defending Guiteau on the plea of insanity, will have trouble to make the jury understand how it is, if this plea is to be established, that the assassin's violence has repeatedly subsided when he has perceived or been informed that it was hurting his defense. The assassin too is pleased when any witness expresses the opinion that he is a crank, and manifests his displeasure and disappointment when others testify to his sanity. The jury, if it possesses average intelligence, notes all these things, as all other persons note them.

On the day following the great disaster in the theatre at Vienna the New York Herald had nine columns of cable giving an account of it. The dispatches were printed in both English and German, and there was a complete diagram of the theatre building. No other paper in America or Europe, outside of Vienna, had the news so full. The English papers, though comparatively nearer the scene, were badly beaten by the Herald.

Ex-Secretary Blaine has accepted the invitation of the joint committees of congress and will deliver the eulogy on President Garfield at the memorial services to be held in the house of representatives as soon as the two houses reassemble after the holiday recess. It will be an opportunity for an oration of deep pathos and great power. Mr. Blaine's abilities for it are superior to those of any other man in the nation.

The progress made by the South American telegraph company in laying cables and erecting their wires has been very rapid of late, and they report that but a short time will elapse before telegraphic communication with all portions of the west coast of South America will be made, thus adding greatly to the facility with which business may be transacted between the United States and those countries.

Although there are fewer ships to load in port this month, the exports of the Columbia river for December will be nearly equal to those of last month. Up to date thirteen vessels have cleared with cargoes valued at $752,599, and several others are on their way down the river with partial cargoes, to be completed at Astoria. The December exports will, without doubt, amount to over $1,000,000.

There are 3000 men working now on the Northern Pacific extension between Miles City and Coulson, 125 miles further west. The engineers expect to complete the road to the last named point by the 15th June next.

THE CITY COUNCIL.

Franchise Granted to the New Street Railway for Thirty Years.

ONE MILE PER YEAR TO BE BUILT.

The Judiciary Committee Report that the City can do Nothing to Prevent Cigarette Smoking—Routine Business.

The city council met in regular session last night, President Henry Hewett in the chair and all members present.

COMMUNICATIONS.

From Wm. Hiedner and others, asking that a street lamp be erected corner Eleventh and Hall; referred to committee on streets.

REPORTS.

From the committee on streets, recommending the following amendment to the "tire" ordinance: That all wheels to vehicles hauling over 4000 pounds which shall be built or repaired after January 1, 1882, shall have tires four inches in width; adopted.

From viewers in the proposed lateral extension of Third street from A to Front referred to committee on streets.

From the judiciary committee, recommending the indefinite postponement of repeal of section 30 of ordinance 2909, and of the passage of Mr. Howett's ordinance for licensing and regulating bar-rooms; adopted.

From the city surveyor, relative to the opening of Menle street; referred to committee on streets.

From the same officer, relative to the extension of Fourteenth street across Tanner's creek; same reference.

NO REMEDY FOR CIGARETTE SMOKING.

The following report was read and adopted:

Your committee on judiciary and city attorney, to whom was referred the petition of the Ladies' Christian Temperance Union, with other statements, asking for the passage of an ordinance prohibiting the use of tobacco by youths especially in the form of cigarette smoking, would respectfully report that we have considered the same and recommend that no action be taken thereon. While we realize that in many instances great physical injury may be done by boys and youth using cigarettes, yet the legislature has not given the city any power specifically to deal with this question and we think that the petitioners will have to seek their remedy at the hands of the legislature, who alone have the power, outside the restraining of a well ordered home, to accomplish the end sought.

CHARLES HOLMAN,
W. B. HONEYMAN,
J. S. RALEIGH,
Com. on Judiciary.

J. C. MORELAND,
City Attorney.

NEW ORDINANCES.

Providing for licensing barrooms and drinking saloons and providing for the prevention of selling liquor without license; passed. [This is a substitute for two ordinances referred to the judiciary committee at last meeting.—REPORTER.]

Extending time for improvement of Sixth street until May 1st; passed.

ENGROSSED ORDINANCES.

Adopting report of city surveyor in the extension of Thirteenth street; passed.

Declaring cost of improving Yamhill street and making proper appropriation; passed.

Regulating width of tires, as amended above; passed.

Authorizing the Willamette street railway to lay tracks and operate street cars.

The ordinance was adopted section by section, and passed by a unanimous vote with the following amendments:

That after Jan. 1, 1885, lines must be constructed at the rate of one mile per year, and

That the franchise run 30 years instead of 99.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions were passed:

Resolved, That the city surveyor be and is hereby directed to survey a lateral extension of the west line of North Sixth street, from B street to A street, so as to make the west line of said street (as extended laterally sixty feet west of a line drawn from the northwest corner of block 42, Couch addition, to the north west corner of block No. 68, city of Portland, and that he make his report thereof together with a plat of such survey showing the lots or parts of lots to be appropriated by such proposed extension and that he file the same as provided by law.

Resolved, That the auditor and clerk be and is hereby directed to cause notice to be given (by publication) to the owners of property on North Third street, inviting them to examine the report of the viewers appointed to assess the damages and benefits occasioned by the proposed lateral extension of said street, and that they be requested to sign a statement of their sentiments regarding the award of damages and benefits as shown by said report.

Resolved, That the city surveyor be and is hereby directed to survey a proposed opening of a street to be known as North Twenty-first street and to be four hundred and sixty feet west of North Twentieth street and to extend from the north line of B street to the north line of E street, and that he make and file his report thereof together with a plat showing each particular tract of land to be appropriated by such proposed extension.

LODGE ELECTIONS.

A POPULAR INSURANCE COMPANY.

There is no doubt that an incontestable contract of life insurance—by which we mean a policy of insurance whose validity cannot be disputed by the company that issued it—is worth more to the insured than a policy of the ordinary kind. Its popularity is shown by the very large business done last year and this year by the Equitable Life Assurance Society, whose policies become incontestable when they are three years old. The business of this society is reported to be larger than that of any other life insurance company in the world.

Other things which have drawn the popular favor to the Equitable Society, are the facts that the language of the policies is plain and intelligible; that the conditions of the contract are simple and devoid of the technicalities and arduous provisions which have long been incorporated in the policies of other companies; and that its incontestable policies are paid promptly, as soon as satisfactory proofs of the death of the insured are received.

That the Equitable Society gives large cash returns to its Tontine policy holders, appears from the published letters of several of those who have held its Tontine Savings Fund policies. In these letters acknowledgments are made of the receipt of dividends of eighty per cent. and upwards on the premiums paid. The immense business of the society and its financial strength are well known. It announces in our advertising columns that it has $190,000,000 of outstanding insurance, $43,000,000 in assets, and nearly $10,000,000 in surplus.

AT COST DURING HOLIDAYS.

In millinery goods, Mrs A. E. West, Washington street, is offering during holidays the same at cost. The ladies will find this an excellent chance for bargains. Mrs. West has the sole agency for the Bazar Patterns, which are now quite popular. The assortment is great and all tastes can be satisfied.

Mme. Verdier, Third and Morrison streets, has now in stock a great variety of imported lace goods, besides fancy goods—all suitable for Christmas presents. Prices rate low. Good stamping done.

MINOR MENTION.

A handsome statuette of Sheridan as "Louis XI" is shown in Morse's window.

The Columbia did not get to sea yesterday on account of heavy southeast winds. She returned to her dock in Astoria at 4 P. M.

The Kirkwood and Woodhall cleared Tuesday. The former has 16,688 centals of wheat on board worth $18,399. The latter has 24,274 centals, worth $40,050.

The O. R. & N. Co. presented policemen Emig, Sanders and Barry each with $25 for their services in extinguishing the recent fire in the company's building.

Governor Thayer has commissioned Geo. A. Brock of Corvallis, B. B. Tuttle of Portland, D. P. Dwight of Weston, and J. H. Upton of Port Orford, notaries public for Oregon.

The River Ganges, which came in yesterday, is in charge of Capt. Hastings. Isaac Gambles, the former captain of the vessel, died on the 2d of October last at Manzanillo. He was a native of England, aged 56 years.—Astorian.

SUPEME COURT.

SALEM, Dec. 21, 1881.

Court met at 10 o'clock A. M., full bench present. James K. Sears, respondent, vs. John W. McGrew, appellant. Impleaded with James R. Crowley and George W. Clark, defendants; judgment of the court below affirmed; opinion by Lord, C. J.

SYLLABUS.

Where the action is upon a contract, joint and several, a several judgment would be proper, as the defendants might have been sued alone in such case; therefore judgment might be rendered against one or more, without waiting the final trial.

H. Weissman vs. C. M. Russell; argued and submitted.

Ordered that the court stand adjourned until to-morrow at 9:30 o'clock A. M.

THE COURTS.

STATE CIRCUIT COURT—STOTT, J.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 21, 1881.

State of Oregon vs. Lee Back Tung; dismissed.

Judy vs. Kern; W. B. Gilbert appointed referee instead of J. K. Kelly.

Quinn vs. Cook & Co.; demurrer to amended complaint overruled; defendant allowed to file answer.

Jury discharged for the term.

Why in thunder can't I get a hat that will become me as well as yours do you? You can be answered if you as we do—go to Woods' the Hatter—and we'll bet a steamboat that you'll have no trouble in getting a becoming hat, and you won't have to pay any more than it's worth, either.

JACK POWERS' CASE.

Notice of Appeal to the Supreme Court and Grounds for such Appeal.

Yesterday morning, the attorneys for Jack Powers, who was sentenced to hang to-morrow, served formal notice of an appeal to the supreme court. It is understood that Judge Stott will to-day grant a stay of proceedings. The supreme court are not likely to pass on the case until next July. Following is the full text of the notice:

In the Circuit Court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah: The State of Oregon vs John Powers. Notice of appeal.

To J. F. Caples, District Attorney for the Fourth Judicial District, and A. E. Borthwick, Clerk of the said Circuit Court:

You and each of you are hereby notified that the above defendant, John Powers, appeals from the judgment of the circuit court of the State of Oregon for the County of Multnomah in the above entitled action, wherein the State of Oregon was plaintiff and the said John Powers defendant, which judgment was rendered against said defendant on the —— day of November, 1881, adjudging said defendant to be hanged by the neck until dead in the enclosure of the jail of the County of Multnomah, State of Oregon, on Friday, the 23d day of December, A. D. 1881.

And the defendant appeals as aforesaid to the supreme court of the State of Oregon.

You are further notified that said defendant will rely on said appeal upon the following errors of law committed by the said circuit court in the said action:

1. Error of the court in allowing R. A. Sutherland to serve as a juror in said action.

2. Error of the court in sustaining the objection of the state to the question asked by defendant's counsel of the witness, William Imbrie, as to what caused said witness and the defendant to go to the wharf opposite the Esmond hotel on the 4th day of July, 1881, which said question was as follows:

"What caused you—who suggested about going to the boat, you or Powers? Upon whose suggestion was it that you went to the wharf, yours or Powers?

3. Error of the court in sustaining the objection made by counsel for the state by the question asked of said witness, Imbrie, by counsel for the defendant, as to what they, said witness and defendant learned upon going to the wharf on said 4th of July, about the boat not going to St. Helens, which question was as follow:

"What did you learn when you went down to the wharf, about the boat not going to St. Helens?"

4. Error of the court in sustaining the objections made by counsel for the state to the question asked by defendant's counsel of said witness, Imbrie, as to whether he, the defendant, said anything after said witness and defendant had started away from said wharf on the occasion above referred to, which said question was as follows:

"Did he say anything after you had started off the wharf and as you went away?"

5. Error of the court in sustaining the objections made by counsel for the state to the question asked by defendant's counsel of the said witness, Imbrie, as to what defendant said immediately after leaving the said wharf, on the said occasion, upon the subject of the boat going to St. Helens, which question was as follows:

"What did you say upon the subject of the boat's going to St. Helens?"

6. Error of the court in instructing the jury that if the defendant, armed with a loaded pistol, sought Cornelius for the purpose of provoking an altercation as an excuse for killing him, and he did kill him with the pistol, then the fact if it is so that Cornelius drew his pistol at the same time the defendant did his or before, is no excuse for the defendant, nor would it make any difference who fired the first shot, he is guilty of murder in the first degree. No person can knowingly and voluntarily bring upon himself the very necessity which he sets up for his defense, and if he does so he cannot excuse a homicide upon the ground that the deceased fired the first shot.

Error by the court in denying defendant's motion for a new trial, and the said defendant will rely on his said appeal upon abuse of discretion by the said circuit court in denying defendant's said motion for a new trial, and defendant will rely on said appeal upon other and further errors of law occurring at the said trial, and disclosed by the record therein.

The Daily Oregonian.

THURSDAY MORNING, DEC. 22, 1881.

BY ATLANTIC CABLE.

The Loss of the Bath City.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—The chief mate of the Bath City reports heavy weather experienced after leaving Bristol. The vessel began making water on the 17th of November, and lost her rudder the 30th. All hands left the vessel on the 3d of December. The survivors have been sent to the Northern hospital at Liverpool badly frost-bitten.

Heavy Gales in England.

A heavy gale prevailed in London and along the western coast on Tuesday. At Bristol last night a chimney stack was blown down upon a house killing two persons and injuring 13. The gale was violent in France. Booths in the flour market at Paris were blown down and many wrecks on the French coast are reported.

The Ladies' League Defiant.

DUBLIN, Dec. 21.—The wife of Henry George, a citizen of the United States, took the chair at a defiant meeting of the ladies' land league Tuesday. A male porter on leaving the premises with a bag of letters was arrested and sent to Kilmainham jail.

Decisions of the land court commission are regarded with dissatisfaction by many tenants in the north.

The corporation of Dublin has considered the question of conferring the freedom of the city upon Parnell and Dillon. The proceedings were disorderly, and the meeting dissolved on technical points.

A Transfer of Ministers.

THE HAGUE, Dec. 20.—Rudolph Van Pestel, minister resident of the Netherlands at Washington, is transferred to Constantinople, and Mr. Wiecklew appointed minister to Washington.

Esposito's Trial.

PALERMO, Dec. 20.—The trial of Esposito, the alleged brigand, extradited from the United States, was begun yesterday. Of 32 witnesses summoned 15 failed to appear.

A Vigilant Monarch.

VIENNA, Dec. 20.—The emperor is visiting places of amusement, inspecting escapes, &c.

An African Explorer Dead.

LONDON, Dec. 21.—John Ludwig Krapf, African explorer and missionary, is dead.

Suffrage in Rome.

ROME, Dec. 21.—The senate yesterday, by a vote of 142 to 55, adopted the clause of the reform bill giving the right to vote to all who can read and write. The senate afterward adopted the whole reform bill.

Preparations for Trouble.

The commander of the Italian iron-clad Affondatore, at Alexandria, Egypt, has been ordered to hold himself in readiness at the disposal of the Italian consul-general there.

Bismarck Still Indignant.

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—The editor of Stoors Gazette has been sentenced to four weeks' imprisonment for animadverting on the attitude of Bismarck on the anti-Semitic agitation.

Why he was Sentenced.

BERLIN, Dec. 21.—The article of Herr Levisohn, editor of the Tageblatt, treated on a threatening letter received by Bismarck at Kirzengen. The article stated that Napoleon received threats before election, and hinted that Bismarck's friends helped him in the same way. Hence the sentence of the Jewish editor.

WEST INDIES.

Jamaica Notes.

KINGSTON, Dec. 21.—The Jamaica expedition, under convoy of British war vessels, sailed for the coast of Panama, where, it is said, the spoils of the buccaneer Morgan have been discovered.

Col. George Hicks, of Illinois, has claimed and obtained letters of naturalization as a British subject from the government of Jamaica. He has been appointed assistant inspector of schools, and is now agitating that country for "better homes for the people" and granting premiums by government for buildings.

THE NORTHWEST.

Eastern Oregon.

Lewis Rinehart died at the home of his son in Summerville on the 10th inst., aged 81 years.

An alarm of fire was started in the public school at La Grande a few days ago. The scene that followed is thus described: Immediately the air was darkened with a profusion of frocks, hoods, red-topped boots and spelling books, caused by a pell-mell break for the door. The children in the lower room, hearing the uproar above, decided to adjourn without a dissenting vote. The scene of confusion which ensued, as described by an eye witness, is said to have been one of unparalleled commotion, and can only be approximated by the most vivid imagination. It was some time before the students were convinced that it was a false alarm and the usual quiet restored.

Southern Oregon.

Skating on Goose lake has been destroyed by a heavy rainstorm.

F. W. Olwell of Jackson county has fattened and sold 500 hogs this season and has made bacon of 100.

A. W. Bish of Ashland lost a valuable mare recently from lockjaw, induced by having trodden on a rusty nail.

The government telegraph line between Ashland and Fort Klamath is now in working order and ready for business.

Jerome B. Coats, a pioneer of Jackson county, died in Jacksonville on the 12th inst. of hemorrhage of the lungs, aged 43 years.

The Jacksonville Times, recently enlarged to a 32-column paper, presents an appearance of thrift that speaks well for its publishers.

From all parts of Josephine county comes news that miners are busy washing gravel, and the outlook for a rich gold harvest in the spring is very favorable.

PROTECTION IN AMERICA.

What have been its Effects According to an English Authority.

[London Times.]

The facts and figures we publish on the foreign trade of the United States are an important contribution to the free-trade controversy. They show clearly what has been the effect of a protective policy in this instance, and what it is likely to be in every instance in which it is tried. The great and rapid growth of the foreign trade of the United States has been a favorite subject with protectionists in this country. The figures on which they rely are correct although they are not correctly interpreted. The whole foreign trade of the states has grown of late years by a larger percentage of increase than the foreign trade of this country. The increase in exports has been the greatest and the most remarkable. The exports of merchandise in 1880 have gone at a bound to more than double what they were ten years earlier. In 1870 they were £76,564,000, an increase itself of nearly three fold from the figures of 1860. In 1880 they were £187,128,000. English exports of late years can show no such percentages as these. They have grown from £199,586,000 in 1870 to £223,060,000 in 1880. But if we begin the comparison from an earlier date, it shows more favorably for us. Our mere increase, for example, between 1840 and 1880 is more in itself than the total exports of the United States in the latter year. But in 1840 our exports were already more than double those of the United States, so that our progress since that date is the more astonishing. But the figures must be looked at more closely still if we are to give them their real meaning. The comparison is between two countries, the populations of which are increasing at very different rates. If we look, not at the gross exports, but at the exports per head of population, England will be found more decidedly in advance of the United States. The comparison between 1870 and 1880 is unfair to England in one respect. The United States during these ten years were just recovering from the losses of their civil war, and were, therefore, moving more rapidly forward than in accordance with their normal rate of progress. The fact remains that in 1880 the exports of the United Kingdom were £6 9s 5d per head of population, while those of the United States, rapidly as they had grown, were only £3 1s 1d per head. If we look back at the beginning of the whole period of years to which our figures relate, the significance of the figures will be even more obvious. The distance between the United Kingdom and the United States is shown to be much greater at the close than at the beginning of the period—much greater in 1880 than it had been in 1840. But we are not even so at the end of the case for England and for free trade. We have said nothing about imports, and it is in imports that the superiority of English trade is most conspicuously shown. Nor, in the matter of exports, have we made the allowances that require to be made for the necessary incorrectness of the returns. Our exports are valued at the port of exit. They are sold with the additional value which freight charges give. To which of the two accounts these charges are to be set down, whether they are to be taken as swelling the business of the one country or the other, must depend, of course, on the ownership of the vessels by which the goods are conveyed. Now it so happens that while the foreign trade of America has been growing, her mercantile marine has been doing just the reverse. In 1860, out of the 5,000,194 tons of shipping entering American ports, 3,301,903 tons are credited to American owners. In 1880 the entries have grown to 15,230,534 tons, but the American share in them has sunk to 3,128,374 tons. We cannot calculate with precision the money and trade loss which this involves. We state elsewhere our reasons for setting it down roughly at not less than £16,000,000 a year. That is to say, America, in consequence of her protective system and of the decline in her shipping which has attended it, pays the above sum yearly for having work done for her which free trade would have enabled her to do for herself. American exports may well increase when all this amount of carriage has to be paid for by them. Exports are, in other words, the discharge of a nation's whole indebtedness to foreign countries, from whatever cause it may arise. American exports, therefore, are so much the larger from the decline of American shipping; but American trade is not on that account so much the more profitable, but, on the contrary, so much the less profitable to the country. If the carriage of American imports were performed without charge, the exports would sink. If the carriage of imports to this country were performed, not by the English, but by American owned vessels, our exports would be so much in excess of what they now are; but it would be hard to make out in what way our country would be the richer for the change.

Pickings and Stealings.

When a man gives you his left hand to shake, it is safe to infer that he has done something with his right that he is ashamed of.—Boston Courier.

A Dublin newspaper contained the following: "I hereby warn all persons from trusting my wife, Ellen Flanagan, on my account, as I am not married to her."

A Word about Protection.

[New York Mail and Express.]

A wise statesman would save protection by unburdening it of all its worst and most obvious wrongs, so as to put off the evil day when the accumulated grievances of a suffering people should sweep the policy of protection out of existence. The highly protected nobility and clergy of France in the close of the last century might have saved a great deal of their power and plunder, had they known how to concede in time and with good grace. They held on to all their prerogatives till the deluge of 1789 strewed the land with the wrecks of their fortunes. Cannot our highly favored industries and interests learn something from the past, if they are unable to look into the future?

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 21.—The freight market remains fairly active and promises to continue so until the close of the year, after which time it is likely that it will commence to ease off. Ships on berth are doing very well. The Willie Reed finished to-night and will sail to-morrow; the St. John sailed to-day, her cargo comprising in part, 185 bbls whisky, 200 bbls plaster, 1500 kegs nails, 500 cases canned goods, 716 bars railroad iron, 270 tons coal; also, 500 tons coal on government account. Rates remain steady and will undoubtedly continue so as prices paid for ships are too high to admit of lower rates. Tonnage is very scarce and held at full figures. The only charter to note is the Sea King, to arrive from Philadelphia with general cargo. Steamer freight is rather quiet, pending final arrangements with the Pacific railroads. Markets still show the dullness incident to the close of the year.

Wheat—Dull; ¼ lower; exports doing nothing.

Barley—Quiet and shade higher.

Rio coffee—A trifle better demand; prices steady.

Refined sugars—Fairly active; hards, firm; softs, slightly lower.

Foreign fruits—Dull, raisins weak.

Turpentine—Quiet and weaker.

Petroleum—Moderately active.

Hides—Quiet; holders refuse to make concessions.

An American Hotel in London.

[From the Albany Argus, Nov. 24.]

Mr. Alfred J. Dobson, formerly of New York, but now of London, arrived in this city a few days ago, bearing with him the plans of a colossal hotel to be erected in London. These plans were submitted to Mr. Charles E. Leland, and he was asked to assume the management of the building when it is finished. Yesterday that gentleman signified his intention of accepting the offer, and the work of erection will rapidly go on. The new hotel will stand upon one of the most commanding and attractive sites in London. The situation is upon the Victoria embankment, a short distance from Charing Cross Station, and, within a few hundred yards of the houses of parliament, Westminster abbey and the fashionable theaters of the city. The building will face partly upon Whitehall place and partly upon a new road soon to be opened by the government. The rear is upon the Victoria embankment, and from the windows of the house a magnificent view will be had both up and down the Thames. Adjoining the site are the residences of various wealthy peers, and the gardens attached to their palaces will be a most pleasing feature. Between the site selected for the house and the Thames river is a beautiful park, adorned with a fine statue of Sir James Outram. The hotel will occupy an area of 47,000 square feet, and its dimensions will be 400 feet upon the river and 220 feet upon Whitehall-place. It will be nine stories in hight, and will contain about 900 single rooms and suites, furnishing accommodation for 1200 or 1300 guests. To fulfill the terms of the contract upon which the land was secured, a terrace 30 feet in width and the length of the house (400 feet) will be constructed in the rear. The cost of the structure, when finished, will exceed $1,000,000, and the furniture $750,000. It will be the only hotel in Europe strictly American, and it is intended especially for the accommodation of visitors from this country. Mr. Leland will take with him his chef, barkeeper and waiters. The house will not be finished inside of 18 or 20 months. The architect is Mr. E. C. H. Blake, of London.

OREGON TO MASSACHUSETTS.

Some time ago, Messrs Hodge, Davis & Co., of this city, read in a Massachusetts paper that Hon. Charles R. Ladd, auditor of that state, was afflicted with an incurable kidney disease, and had been obliged to give up work and return to his home. They immediately sent him a box of their celebrated Oregon Kidney Tea, and from time to time sent him other boxes. A few days ago they received from him the following letter:

COMMONWEALTH OF MASSACHUSETTS,
Auditor's Dep't, Boston, Nov. 11, 1881.

Messrs. Hodge Davis & Co: DEAR SIRS—I have no hesitation in saying that I have been much benefited by the use of the Oregon Kidney Tea as a remedy for a kidney difficulty which has troubled me for six or eight years. I can heartily recommend it to those who are similarly afflicted, as a safe and agreeable remedy. I shall test its virtues further, for I have great faith in it as a specific for many diseases of the kidneys. Respectfully yours,

CHAS. R. LADD.

The original of this letter can be seen by calling on Messrs. Hodge Davis & Co., Portland, Oregon, and the Oregon Kidney Tea can be bought of any druggist or dealer, in Oregon or Washington. Price $1 per box.

The Assassin's Pretense.

[Chicago Times.]

The more desperate the assassin becomes, the more completely he undoes everything that his brother-in-law is trying to do for him. He proves his sanity in his impatience to convince the court of his insanity. When a man believes himself inspired of God, he naturally does not believe himself insane, for if he were conscious of insanity the idea of inspiration could have no reality for him. But Guiteau is too great a coward to trust himself to either line of defense, and so he tries to use both of them. It is pretty difficult to ride two horses at once; when they are going in opposite directions it cannot be done. If Guiteau imagines that anyone will believe that he was insane on the 2d of July, but has now recovered his sanity, he is much mistaken. A somnambulist may kill a man in his unnatural sleep; but if a man should go around the streets announcing that he was sound asleep, and liable to kill any one whom he met, the police would take care of him.

Guiteau as a Grim Sort of Wit.

[From the Memphis Avalanche.]

An Irishman who was once arraigned in a criminal court on a charge of larceny, when called upon to plead to the indictment pretended not to understand and stood mute.

"Come," said the judge, "what do you say; are you guilty or not guilty?"

"Sure, your honor," said Pat, "how do I know? Wait till I hear the evidence."

This showed the genuine Irish wit. Guiteau, when asked by Porter if he was insane when he shot the president, responded: "How do I know? Wait till I hear the verdict of the jury." Was this wit or madness?

A LADY'S WISH.

"Oh, how I do wish my skin was as clear and soft as yours," said a lady to her friend. "You can easily make it so," answered the friend. "How?" inquired the first lady. "By using Hop Bitters, that makes pure rich blood and blooming health. It did for me, as you observe." Read of it.—Cairo Bulletin.

Hub Punch, prepared by skilled hands of pure old liquors and aromatic fruit juices, is delicious, and surpasses any punch or toddy made on the spur of the moment. Taken hot at night it will break up a cold.

Sold by all Grocers, Wine Merchants and Druggists. Trade supplied by Richardson & Harrison, Agents for Pacific coast, San Francisco.

How She Utilizes Her Beau.

A ninety-seven pound Pennsylvania girl has a beau that tips the beam at 210. She keeps him in attendance every night up to 12 o'clock seated comfortably in an arm chair. She explained to a companion, under the seal of secrecy, that beneath the cushion she kept her autumn leaves in a book, and as soon as they were sufficiently pressed she would give him the mitten.

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHEA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.
